Out of Chaos comes an overwhelmingly hip theme. . .

Retro is Cool, Man!

*W*on't you take me to . . . funky town. Won't you take me to . . . funky town. Well, if you live in Rensselaer you're already there, man. It's not that we're caught up in some kind of a mystical, retro warp; the town as a whole is just funky. It's not a stale funky either, it's fresh and happening.

It is a fact, fashions and fads that were popular during the sixties and seventies are once again en vogue. Bell bottoms, paisleys, clogs, straight hair, tye-dyes, John Lennon glasses, Hendrix, The Doors, Janis Joplin, and the Steve Miller Band: all of these sounds and things enjoyed a rebirth in the culture of star date 1994. Some evidence was found in the MTV video-scape, such as psychadelic swirlies, acid-washed color schemes, and platform shoes permeate the network. Even the lyrics of popular music of the early 90's contained a level of substance that was approached only during the 60's and 70's.

What's the deal? Was this flashback a fad or the result of a generation that had no identity nor defining force of their own? Was the now generation forced to hold onto the past because they couldn't create their own future? Was it the force of the now middle aged baby-boomers that kept the style lingering?

Whereas those boomers had Vietnam and the politics of LBJ and Tricky Dicky Nixon, today's activists had their own causes: the environment, human rights abuses in third world countries, abortion, and AIDS, just to name a few.

So the fact is that retro is cool, whatever the reason. As a young person, one could either jump on the groovadelic bandwagon or refute the era and find his or her own scene. They also have two ways to view this yearbook: one as an irritating reminder of a bygone era that would soon be forgotten or as a return to grooveness (groove) n (state of groove; see hip, funkful, lack of geekness.) adj. groovy.

Hey Man, We're Done!

Hey! So maybe the seniors are not the most spirited class to pass through these hallowed halls. Maybe some of them would just as soon stay home as be number one in the cheering section; but hey, we know where their hearts are and that the true colors running through their veins is tie-dyed red and black.

One way the seniors showed their level of school pride was constructing a float for homecoming three of four years. During the 1993 homecoming parade the theme of their float was "Hey Bombers let's take a freakin' dump on the Ingots," and it won second place. That's not pride?

Senior pride day of 1993 will be remembered as not quite spirited, but rather a bit pathetic. Some of the loss of student enthusiasm was due to the shortened day of fun (as a disappointment to all, the "day" was only three periods.)

Mr. Oates, senior English teacher, said, "The thing I will remember most about the class of '94 is their comradery in the face of adversity."

Juniors Are Ready To Take Over

To most juniors the 1993-94 school year seemed to fly by. The passing of the old school year seemed to psyche up the juniors to take over as seniors mid decade.

The class of 1995 started off the 93-94 year on a good foot by winning the homecoming float competition. This has become a tradition with the class, in that this is the third consecutive year that they won the contest.

Most juniors agreed that the junior year is definitely different academically than previous years. Ava Zimmer was quoted as saying, "It's a lot harder when it comes to school work, because of American Studies and other classes, but I do like it better because you are an upper classman and that gives you more privileges."

This was the first year the juniors did not have to be concerned with upper classmen being a problem; they had to worry about being someone else's problem. Other concerns that faced the juniors were the same problems juniors have always had, most importantly, "What will happen to us after high school?"

No matter what problems faced the class of 1995, they made it just fine and were looking forward to leading RCHS next year as seniors.

The Class of '96 Rocks On

Rocking out of their freshman year and on to their sophomore year at RCHS, the class of 1996 are newcomers no more, and they have mixed feelings about moving up another rung toward their climb out of the Bomber nest. Some tenth graders thought it was better than their freshman year. Cristin Carter said, "This year is better because you are familiar with the school and the seniors don't pick on you anymore." Others who agreed with her were Aaron Keilner, who echoed her sentiments, "It's fun because we have more freedom;" and Rob Carol simply replied, "It's groovy."

Kim Joseph had mixed opinions about her second year at RCHS. She thought the teachers have more respect for a sophomore, yet expect more of them.

When asked whether she was looking forward to her upperclass years, Kim said she was scared to graduate, but was eager for more partying and hopes that her "stiff" class will loosen up.

However, others thought less of this school year. Ryan Wing was experiencing a vacuum during his second year in high school and, with Dickensian wit, his thoughts were to the effect that the year "was the best of times, yet the worst of times," whereas Matt Nagel replied, "I just can't wait to get out of here."

Role playing a prep tech lesson in English class in January was a challenge for leaders Darrin Alson and Christian Brooks until they rebuffed the 55 degree temperatures and donned coats to appease Mrs. Swartzell (photo top).

FRESHMEN DIG THE CHANGE

Moving across the street is not much of a trip for most people, but a major move from middle school to high school can be severe. The former eighth graders went south for four years with little migratory trouble. Their statements say it all.

"High school is more open and I have a lot more freedom than I did in middle school. I do like high school because I don't have as much homework. Being a freshman doesn't bother me either." — Chasity Sizemore

"I feel that high school is pretty neat, a lot better than that place over there. I was scared at first of the upper classmen but experience changed that. I'm treated pretty decent." — Ron

Rainwater

"High school is better than middle school... because I can pick my own classes and I have more freedom. Slave Day was fun too, but it should have been all day." — Brandon Roberts

"I feel I'm treated fine, but it is more difficult than middle school. I have more space and if I need help I'm sure I could get it." — Cindy Balvich

For the most part, the class of 1997 adjusted well to the new educational and extra-curricular opportunities available at the high school and fine themselves in the groove of Bomberdom.

Teachers get funky with students' grades.

Faculty Members at RCHS welcomed a number of new faces teaching in the classroom when the 1993-94 school year began. Among those joining the staff were Shelly Foister (resource room), Kelly Hanley (art), Tom Landrum (band), Amy Milligan (business), and Meta Waling (vocational aid). Others moved to different places in the school: Betty Barton went to the administration office, Lynn Kiger to the guidance office, and Vicki Nagel came to work in the resource room.

Because of new programs and changes at the high school, a number of teachers spent time at workshops before the school year began. For example, Mrs. Jungblut and Mr. Oates attended a seminar in Advanced Placement Writing at Butler University. In an attempt to continue bringing the Tech Prep program into the school, Mrs. Swartzell, Mr. Hainje, Mrs. Briggs, Mr. Kellow, and Mrs. Hancock attended a summer work shop at Twin Lakes High School.

The teachers and the students really got to know each other this year, through activities outside the class room as well as in. Moreover, the students learned that the teachers are not the overbearing monarchs that rule their classrooms with an iron hand, and the teachers learned that having the power over someone's life has its privileges, as demonstrated in the photo above where Tara Baunach serves the teachers at the Sunshine faculty breakfast.

GROOVE

Derrick Bartoo and a begoggled Nathan Mathew work on someone's heap "o" metal.

Michael Kasky sets the beat for the Marching Bombers. Man this guy has rhythm.

auto shop & vice

In an attempt to find a job as the quickest tire changer at the Indianapolis 500, Aaron Teske practices on a FWD needing Auto Shop attention.

Intent on fixing the problem, Stacey Murphy and Raymond Parzschke try to determine what the problem is with the tire.

"I Got Shotgun!"

Heath Arndt is seeking out a tool, for the job at hand.

Mr. Brown gives a run on the vice as students Raymond Patzschke, Aaron Teske, and Brett Wireman look on.

The Rensselaer Central High School Auto Mechanics class does a lot in the course of a year. These vocational classes are made up of a two hour class in the morning and a more advanced three hour class in the afternoon. In the two period class, students learn most of the basics of engine theory. For example, students learn how to work on lawn mowers or how to do light car repair.

During the three hour class, the students learn more complicated things that machinists might need to know in the ever changing, computerized technical world. Auto Shop can teach students useful information from light car maintenance and an understanding of simple engine operation to higher levels of repair and an ability to help them always get "shotgun."

Landrum Gets The Call

Watching the varsity in action is just half of the job for pep band members, whose sound permeates and oscillates a throbbing inspirational melody at the Bomber dome during a home basketball game.

Until the week before the 1993-94 school year started, R.C.H.S. was without a band instructor. Enter one Thomas Landrum: band director d'excellence. Arriving on the scene and getting the job, he described the administration and community as a whole as "cooperative and very hospitable." But enough about Director Landrum; what about the band?

Landrum described the marching band season as "very productive" and "a growing experience for all." The marching Bombers attended a number of contests with their best performance came at the last contest at the Lafayette Jeff Invitational, where they scored a second place.

The concert band performed well at four concerts, and moved on to contest in April, scoring a prestigious division one rating.

The percussion section (Jennifer Mercer, Angie Smith, and Shaunna Henson) waits for the right moment, as Mike Ringen leads the Brigade at halftime.

Percussionist: Jennifer Mercer, Angie Smith, and Shauna Henson, along with the rest of the Bomber Brigade take direction from Molly Stowers.

The Band Council: Casey Tillett, Mr. Tom Landrum, Melanie Callahan, Peter Schenk, Bill Fish, Mike Ringen, Mike Kasky, Molly Stowers, Jim Grarner, and Scott Jackson.

After senior night, ace mellophone artist Ryan Meunier pauses to savor the evening honoring his class.

Colorguard Dances Its Way Into The Hearts of RCHS Fans

The 1993-94 Rensselaer Central Colorguard had a competitive year. Leading this award-winning organization were Melanie Callahan and Lorie Smith, and their sponsor was Cindy Aubuchaun.

Appearing at a variety of locations, the Colorguard performed at the Star City Festival Marching Band Contest at Lewis Cass High School, where they placed third in Class C. They also competed in the Kokomo Tournament of Champions and at the Mid-States marching band festival. Strutting their stuff at home, the Colorguard also marched in the Little Cousin Jasper Parade.

The precision dance team put on many of their routines during half time at basketball and football games. Their performances helped Bomber fans entertained during half-time of the games. The 1993-94 Colorguard continued building on the tradition of being part of the musical program of fall and winter sports activities at Rensselaer Central.

One of many flag routines help to give the "color" guard their name. Lorie Smith forms the end of the line in a twirling exercise.

Choir Sings at Home and on the Road

The Choir was very busy this year with numerous contests and two plays. The choir practices every day fifth and sixth hour and their dedication was rewarded. A first place was awarded to both the concert choir and the show choir for their performances at contest. The treble choir composed mainly of freshman girls finished a respectable second at contest.

The show/chamber choir participated in April in the prestigious Kings Island Show Choir and Concert Choir competition. They received first in their class. After their competition, the show choir went on a fun filled adventure in Paramount's Kings Island Theme park, where they rode the rollercoasters and other attractions.

When asked about his first rollercoaster experience Tom Hayes replied "I felt like I was going to throw up".

The choir performed two plays, the fall musical "Godspell" and "The Pajama Game", a play about conflict in the workplace. Both were huge successes and you could tell the hard work put into both productions. Look for more great things from the choir in the future.

The Choir warms up their voices before an important contest.

Members of the Show/Chamber Choir are now one: Nikki Kent, Lavon Chadwick, Kara Meunier, David Linner, Willie Wallace, Kelly Barlow, and Ursula Beaver; and now two: Machiel Miller, Angie Steider, J. J. Nagy, Boos Henderson, Cru Lough, and Leah Kellie. Also, Amy Kelli and new student sang: McKinley, Courtney, Walker, Rodney Boring, Bill Parker, Kent Sejior, Ryan Brown, Tom Hayes, Tina Wright, Kam Joseph.

Health Occupations Students Explore the Medical Field

The 1993-94 Health Occupations class made a couple of changes. They had two students, Becky Alexander and Katy Zenor, from North Newton in the program, and another was the class no longer had the 105 hour certification program at the Care Center, rather a broader base of study in the medical professions.

Health Occupations gives students insight into what it is like to work in the health care fields. One semester involves classroom study of nursing skills, and during the second semester students visit several areas of health care, such as a dentist office, a veterinary clinic, the public health office, and many stations at the hospital and care center. They also studied oncology during second semester.

During their exploration into the medical profession, the students got to visit some new places such as Dr. Puka, Dr. Houghton's office, and the trainer at St. Joseph College, Sean Comer. Kelly Smith said, "I enjoyed interacting with others and the chance to explore the medical field."

Junior Health Occupations student Kelly Smith and instructor Mrs. Louetta Nussbaum discuss diagnostic charts at the hospital before Kelly continues in her studies in the medical fields.

Receiving practical training at Jasper County Hospital is part of the curriculum, as Jobina Buzek finds when she is being instructed by Tonya Jones on how to use the X-ray machine. Students learn by taking X-rays of real patients.

Foundation Building in Trades Class

Constructing a house may be the greatest responsibility a group of teenagers may face in high school, but the morning and afternoon building trades class did just that, from the ground up. Each class worked their three hour shares, from the chilly days of fall through the bitter days in winter, finishing in the rain or shine of spring. The students practiced their skills of masonry construction, hot tar roofing, intrinsic electrical installation, practical painting, and, of course, teamwork. Under the guidance of Dave Goodman, the dwelling was completed for its May open house.

Jeremy Crews, Eric Murray, and Chad Todd listen to roofing knowledge from instructor Dave Goodman while they work on top of the trades house.

Getting By With a Little Help From Our Friends

Many of the organizations at Rensselaer Central High School are based on helping the Rensselaer community. One of these organizations, National Honor Society, managed to collect membership dues that they then graciously donated to the local food pantry.

As a reflection of the Rensselaer Community, the Academic Team did well at the regional competition where the "all around" team finished first.

No Mad Scientists in Science Club

This year the Science Club had many activities to help the environment, including a tree selling program to help the club continue its place in the community as a "group that cares for the future." The president of the club Peter Schenk said that this year the project was a big success. The only low point of the year was Art Middleton's retirement.

The Science Olympiad team participated at the St. Joseph's College science competition, placing third in the region. New RCHS student Beth DeLeon stated, "I got my 300 points, and didn't have to do a project. Not being able to go to a Pearl Jam concert that day was unimportant by comparison."

Interact, which had mostly seniors and lots of money, decided to blow their wad helping others in the world with financial and material aid and helping themselves to a hearty meal at the Sirloin Stockade. They sent school and medical supplies with Tom Reichert, a professor at Purdue and a missionary, to aid the citizens of Haiti. In another project, a former student here at the high school, Elizabeth Steiner, was given money to help farmers in Chile. The club also cleans up highway 114 in the area. At the end of the year, Interact spent the rest of their money satisfying the munchies at Sirloin Stockade. # R.C.H.S. Students Make This World a Better Place for You and Me

Quite a few people here at R.C.H.S. help others to accomplish things that otherwise would not be normally be done. It is this spirit for helping others that set them apart and it is on these pages that we honor their diligence and hard work.

The first club is the Mat Maids, which is an organization dedicated to helping the wrestlers in preparation for the wrestling meets. The Mat Maids do everything from filling water bottles to providing towels to the wrestlers. They also give the wrestlers moral support in time of need.

Another organization that helps students is the Office Assistants. This worthwhile club helps the secretaries in the office by doing such tasks as sharpening pencils, stocking tissue and most importantly collecting attendance in the mornings. As one of the secretaries said, "The office assistants basically do anything we ask of them."

Last but certainly not least is the Library Assistants. These warriors of the bookshelves selflessly hurdle themselves into the archives of R.C.H.S after any portion of material that students may want. The check out materials, put materials back on to shelves after someone has checked something out.

These among other clubs help make R.C.H.S more enjoyable for the rest of us.

Seniors Rock BPA

This year the Business Professionals of America have had a very busy year, not only with the community activities, but with competition also. Together the juniors and seniors had fund raisers to help those who qualified for state competition to go and compete. They have also done some charity work. For the Crisis Center they made Easter and pumpkin baskets filled with candy, and toys to give to the children at the center. For Christmas they adopted a child who was in need, and bought gifts (toys, games, and clothing) for a little girl so she would have a "Merry Christmas".

Every day under the direction of Mr. Oates, students met sixth hour to co-operate and work on each of the publications.

Some good can come from Chaos, like anarchy and mass pandemonium. But seriously, Chaos and Rensselaerian taught a lot of people a lot of things.

"I learned to never pee into the wind," quipped Dave Lintner, two year member of the Rensselerian and Chaos. "I learned to avoid Mr. Oates whenever his face acquired that special tinge."

Chaos this year was interesting with the whole groovy/retro theme. The theme was the brain child gone wrong of co-editor Sean McKim. "I've created a monster! If I hear the word 'groovy' or so much as see it in print again, I'll spew paisley and psychedelic swoorly-doo chunks all over the place," grumbled McKim.

Student Council Governs for a Hippier Tomorrow

They say that in order to be a good leader one must do the following things: listen, speak out, observe, and commit. Well, that's just what the leadership for school did this year. The Student Council was once again busy this year. Just for starters, a group of Student Council members traveled to Muncie, Indiana for the annual I.A.S.C (Indiana Association of Student Councils) convention. "The convention was a blast," said one of the student council members as they got off the bus back in good old Rensselaer. The Student Council members heard guest speakers that turned the place up side down. They went to workshops that dealt with anything from Junior-Senior Prom to learning to be the best leader that you can be.

During the Senior Pride Day convocation, senior student council members prepare freshmen and seniors alike to participate in the four-legged race. The class of '94, although having a unfair advantage, won all events in the convocation.

The Student Council was involved in a number of activities, such as homecoming festivities, which included Senior Pride Day, bonfire, and the queen contest. Instead of the same old Morp, the Student Council sponsored a Valentine's dance that was fantastic. The Student Council also had visitation days from the Care Center and the CDC. Both groups where given tours of the school, and a musical number from the school play cast and the Choir members. The Student Council also took charge of the Fun Fest Activities again this year.

All in all, the Student Council led the student body of RCHS into some of the most fun and memorable events of the 1993-94 school year.

The FFA isn't just an organization for farm kids who like to judge animals, soils, or crops. The FFA accepts many kids with many different interests ranging from conservation to welding. Over the years the FFA department has grown in size by taking on many new titles.

Seeing that the world around them is changing, this year the FFA is also changing. The FFA is having a conservation test plot to help show the good effects of helping our planet earth. This year the FFA teams have taken many more top finishes and they hope to have many more in the future.

Sigma Di Gamma Explores Cultures

The object of having the Sigma Di Gamma club is to explore foreign cultures and promote the studies of other languages. This years club not only explored cultures here but they helped to send some lucky travellers afar to do so. Ten RCHS spanish students were able to take their spring vacation in Mexico. This was possible because of such clubs as Sigma Di Gamma who donated money to lessen the expenses of the students.

Sigma Di also sponsored the foreign language week here in Rensselaer. This included the cafeterias serving different ethnic foods each day of the week and was capped off by the famous Mardi Gras celebration. This year Mardi Gras was held at RCMS instead of RCHS in order to give the eighth graders a taste of different cultures before making a decision on taking courses in the 94-95 years. The eighth graders enjoyed a morning of free food, Pinata breaking, and listening to foreign music.

Hannah Zimmer, an eighth grader, said "It really gave me a much better feel as to whether I want to take a foreign language next year and, besides, it was a lot of fun."

From the shores of Acapulco to the cafeteria of the Middle School once again Sigma Di Gamma was a raging success.

Sunshine

Sunshine Was a Success in 1993-94

The 1993-94 Sunshine year was very successful, and one reason can be attributed to their officers: Courtney Roberts — president, Rachel Hansen and Courtney Reagan — vice presidents, Elaine Waling — recording secretary, Kelly Smith — corresponding secretary, and Leslie Kaye — treasurer. Mrs. Meta Waling and Ms. Kelly Hanley served as the sponsors.

Sunshine's success started with the faculty breakfast during homecoming week, when the members made breakfast for the teachers. The club continued with the Sunshine Dance, "Evening in Paris," held on October 21. The queen of the dance was Courtney Waling, and her princesses included Brandee Cook, Rachel Hansen, Ursula Beaver, and Chastity Sizemore. The expenses of the dance were covered by members selling candy and gift items.

Other activities of the society were the Mother/Daughter tea, where the high school concert choir performed. On Daddy Date Night the Sunshine girls played "Daddy Daughter Feud." On Ideal Lady Night the club had a fantastic fashion show. All of these activities contributed to another very successful year."

New and Improved Senior Pride Day, Not

To an outsider walking down the corridors of RCHS on Wednesday, September 29, 1993, the experience would have resembled a circus come to town. Strangers observing this would have likely thought themselves to be in an insane asylum, but no, they were in Rensselaer Central High School during Senior Pride Day.

Senior Pride Day, one of the most popular activities during Homecoming week, is a time when the graduating class initiates the incoming freshmen by making the rookies wear far out costumes designed by ingenious and sometimes warped seniors, chauffeuring wildly decorated vehicles (but nothing borrowed or stolen from faculty members nor tastelessly adorned), and interpreting the school song until Bomber Pride is oozing from every pore.

The culmination of the half day's fun was an awards ceremony and parade where seniors and their chosen freshmen received spirit and costume awards. Senior Pride Day was a fun way of making the shy freshmen feel more comfortable in their new home.

Senior cheerleader and design co-ordinator Angie Dill makes a freshman fashion statement with Tara Baunach, the ultimate winner of the "Most Spirited Freshman" award.

Senior Peter Schenk checks his freshman, Christina Lane, for all the props necessary for her trip down the hallway for half day of fun and embarrassment.

Homecoming Court Gets Funky

*H*omecoming candidates Crystal Hall, Anne Jordan, Leslie Kaye, Courtney Roberts, and Courtney Waling were selected by the senior men as the 1993 Homecoming Queen Court. Escorts for the queens were chosen at the beginning of Spirit Week and were Derrick Barton, Nathan Mathew, Jason Courtney, Sean McKim, and Ryan Brown.

The 1993 Homecoming Court participated in the annual parade around the court house by cruising in cars donated by the community. Crystal Hall rode in Mr. James Beaver's Corvette. Anne Jordan, Leslie Kaye, and Courtney Roberts also rode in Corvettes donated by Mr. Don Shelmon, Dr. Marianne Plascak, and Mr. Charlie Roberts, respectively. Courtney Waling borrowed Chad Wilmington's Camero convertible.

The night of the Homecoming Game was clear and bright and the perfect compliment to the lovely Court. Cruising around the track at half time, the Court shone as one of the highlights of the Bomber evening. Senior Class President Craig Hurley assisted 1992 Queen Carla Sizemore in crowning Courtney Roberts as the 1993 Homecoming Queen. Courtney also represented Rensselaer Central High School in the Indiana State Homecoming Queen Contest. Miss Roberts traveled to Indianapolis in late April for the contest.

HI MOM, I'M HOME FOR HOMECOMING!

Homecoming '93 was a success for RCHS. The parade was fabulous with the class of '95 capturing the spirit points for the best float for the third year in a row. Grand Marshall of the 1993 Homecoming Parade was Mr. Art Middleton with his wife, Geraldine, riding at his side. They rode in Chad Anderson's Mustang convertible for the festivities. Other participants in the parade showed their spirit by riding on trucks, haywagons, and even horses.

The bonfire roared after the parade with many bystanders enjoying the totally gear festivities. Each class offered a sacrifice in the name of Bomber pride taken off of their float. The senior class threw in a outhouse. The junior class sacrificed a coffin and an ingot, while the sophomores and freshmen put teddy bears and a goal post into the fire.

Coach Snyder, head football coach, spoke to his team and the crowd from the stage with a speech of encouragement. Snyder proceeded by inviting seniors Pat Miller, Chad Smart, and Ivan Steinke to rev up their team and encourage support from all Bomber fans.

The cheerleaders fired RCHS up with their own rendition of "Push-It" by Salt-n-Pepa and a few chants to finish the night in good spirits.

The "PAJAMA GAME" is Played at R.C.H.S.

Rensselaer Central High School's drama and music departments put on "The Pajama Game" two nights successfully in April. The cast and crew of roughly 75 actors, actresses, musicians, set constructors, light and sound coordinators, make-up artists, and costumers performed their own rendition of George Abbot's and Richard Bissell's novel "7 1/2 Cents".

The two act play was produced by Doug McKinley and assistant Brenda McKinley and directed by LaVon Chadwick. Courtney Waling and Dave Lintner shared the spotlight as the female and male leads. Their quality acting and strong voices carried the play. The supporting actors include Tom Hayes, JJ Nagel, Ryan Brown, Ashley Schreag, and Angie Studer.

In Doug McKinley's words, "The Pajama Game is a lighthearted, nimble-footed musical that whips the unlikely musical-comedy subject of labor/management dispute into a buoyant, romantic delight."

McKinley explained, "In the Pajama Game labor and management at the Sleep Tite Pajama Factory are not getting much sleep. A proposed 7 1/2 cent hourly wage increase is the reason and a job action just may be the result.

"Babe is head of the employees' grievance committee who strikes sparks with the shop superintendent, Sid Sorokin. And where there are sparks, 'Steam Heat'. But not to worry: negotiating strategies here involve snappy stars, terrific tunes, and dynamic dances, all part of one of the most infectiously joyful stage musicals."

"The hours of practice added up, paid off by our successful performances," Ashley Schreag reflected. "Courtney Waling and Dave Lintner led the cast through many long hours yet inspired the rest of the cast to keep our spirits up."

Dave Lintner lures Angie "Gladys" Studer's heart with roses and song.

Three varied activities gave the students at RCHS chances to keep their sanity during the long winter months.

In February Mock Congress was a day when all of the seniors from Mr. McKim's classes gathered in the auditorium to simulate a normal day in Congress. Many issues were raised and bills introduced. Among them were welfare limitations, a new capital punishment act, and a changing the penalties for drunk driving. Hopefully, students better understood the inner workings of American government.

Another activity in 1994 was the second annual Mr. Bomber award. Given at half time of the last home varsity basketball game, the winner was a male voted in by the senior girls, similar to Homecoming Queen. The four other finalists (Jason Courtney, Sean McKim, Mike Maienbrook, and Derrick Barton) and escorts (Leslie Kaye, Courtney Roberts, Courtney Reagan, and Anne Jordan, respectively) watched Dave Lintner escorted by Susan Flatt crowned as the 1994 honored senior guy!

A new addition to the events at RCHS was the Sweethearts Dance. This event sponsored by Student Council took place near Valentine's Day, and suggested attire that was Sunday's best, not too formal, yet not too relaxed. The stage in the large lecture hall was festooned with red streamers, balloons, and hearts galore. High spirits and good music came together to make the Saturday evening fun for all who attended.

Slip Slidin' Through Fun Fest

Once again the class of '94 fell short in its quest as a victor in Fun Fest. However, after winning in '94, the class of '95 will be the odds on favorite to repeat in their senior year. The sophomores could catch next year's seniors if they are lucky. As for the freshman, building must be in the plans if they are to triumph.

The day was one of fun and games for all. Softball, car pushing, obstacle course running and sliding, volleyball, and the infamous chicken fling were available to the students. Students who did not partake in the festivities amused themselves or acted as if they were too cool to be a part of the action.

Scoot over VanGough, watch out for our Art Show!

Creativity and excellence in the visual arts was on display during the 1993-1994 annual RCHS Art Show. Works from over one hundred-fifty students in five classes were exhibited in the halls of RCHS. The show occurred the last Friday and Sunday in May. Through the generosity of the Psi Iota Xi, five seniors and three underclassmen were awarded ribbons and cash during a reception on Sunday. These awards were given because of artistic growth, work ethic, and the ability to inspire other students.

Miss Kelly Hanley, who is in her first year at RCHS, was very pleased by the effort of the students this year and is looking forward to see the art to be created next year. Miss Hanley thought the art show went well and a good time was had by all.

@ Whole New World

Picture it: an elementary school gym, clouds hanging from the rafters, a flying carpet, and a castle. Sound like a "whole new world"? Prom attendees would say yes and others would adamantly disagree, but Prom 94', despite its location, proved to be fun and successful for all involved.

The night began with valet parking provided by parents of the junior class. The next stop of the evening was the picture line. The couples were forced to stand limp and allow some lady to put them in the most unnatural pose possible. The photographer behind the camera instructed the celebrants to look at her and smile. (The question in the picture line was "How could one help but laugh?".)

Finally, the prom goers made it to the gym where they were greeted by the music of some familiar looking DJ's and hoards of parents and siblings with video equipment and cameras. After a few dances the prom court was called to the front and the 1994 Prom Queen and King were announced. Courtney Waling and Mike Maienbrook were selected by the senior class to reign over the evening entitled "A Whole New World." As the dancing finished and everyone was wondering what to do next, the Lions Club invited all prom goers out to Curtis Creek Country Club for a complimentary breakfast.

Getting Their Wings on Straight

Reaching for his diploma, Ryan Brown receives congratulations from Mr. Day.

Before saying good bye, class valedictorian Ashley Schreeg offers her farewell speech on the importance of friendship.

*G*raduation was a little late for the class of 1994, because the state of Indiana felt that missing four days off because of snow might reduce the intellectual capacities of the seniors. After changing open houses, announcements, and the rest of their lives, the graduates who entered high school with a less than admirable endorsement, left four years later with many award-winning members.

At the top of the class were valedictorian Ashley Schreeg and salutatorian Peter Schenk. Saying good bye with their special speeches on the topic "Learning to Fly" were Courtney Reagan, Brad Whitecotton, Courtney Roberts, and Sean McKim.

After the pronouncement of a successfully completed education was given by Mr. Ockermann, the crowd erupted with silly string, confetti, snap pops, and something smokey.

The Cheerleaders Want To Know

"It's no easy task being a cheerleader, you have to work and practice and stuff," said Courtney Roberts. "I mean like we have to cheer and everything and people are like 'get out of the way I can't see,' but that is so gay. We are important, just as important as the team."

When Courtney was asked what was the best part about cheerleading she replied, "Actually the best part was when we won the big award at camp." The cheerleaders go to camp every summer at De Pauw University, where they undergo intense training. "It's really tiring because you have to be happy the whole time," Roberts added.

Cheerleading camp stands out in the mind of Amy Mackey as well: "Yeah, the trophy was the best."

Rensselaer won at camp five years in a row, quite an impressive string of victories. The results are noticed, but the hard work is not always appreciated. While cheerleading may not get the same recognition as other sports they work just as hard.

"You come try it for a day," said Amy Mackey.

Bombers Pick Up Speed Near End of Season

After a slow start, the Rensselaer Central varsity football team picked up speed near the end of the season. Finishing with an overall record of three wins five losses. When asked about the season, Coach Snyder replied, "Overall, we had a disappointing record, but as a coaching staff we all feel that the players did a great job. They did everything we asked of them and they never complained."

In 1993 as in '92 Pat Miller led the Bomber offense with a grand total of over 900 all purpose yards, racking up 11 touchdowns. Junior running back Jim Chapman also added a spark to the Bomber offense with a total of 442 yards and nine touchdowns.

On defense it seemed like nothing happened that Mike Maienbrook did not have a hand in. The senior linebacker led all Bombers with 16 solo tackles and a tremendous 61 assists. Chad Smart also had a big year with eight solos and 50 assists.

After making a clean reception, Dusty Cawby breaks for a Bomber first down.

Freshman and Junior Varsity Football Get Better With Age

The freshman and junior varsity football teams both had better than a .500 season in 1993. The JV players loved it when it came to game time, because all week long they play rock em', sock em', smash mouth football with the varsity players. So when they played for real, they were able to take out all their anger on their opponents.

The freshman football team, on the other hand, practiced in their own little world at the other end of the field. Having just enough people to practice, because the team was small, the ninth grade team worked hard to give themselves a winning season.

"Watching some of their games, I noticed that each week both teams progressed a little at a time, and they all played together as a team," said varsity Coach Steve Snyder.

Junior varsity player Jason Nowlin feels that the team had a very progressive season. He felt that after every game the team got better and better. The only thing Nowlin didn't really care for was "practicing with the varsity, but we will be varsity next year."

Even though the girls' volleyball team did not have a successful season on the scoreboard, they had their victorious moments. A highlight for the team was winning three games in a row.

Girls Golfers Go Undefeated

In sports everyone has obstacles to overcome. This year's Lady Bombers certainly had their share of them. The team lost four seniors from last year. They had two returning varsity players: senior Leslie Kaye and junior Erin McGraw. Two other players, juniors Jane Risner and Jaimee Holbrook, are seeing their first varsity playing time after two years on junior varsity. The fifth player was Angie Dill who had never played the sport before. The Bombers went undefeated with a record of 10-0, despite their constant struggle in consistency.

The Bombers' season ended in a shocking upset when they did not advance from sectional. A bright spot in sectional was Erin McGraw who advanced individually to regional and missed state cut-offs by a stroke. Erin McGraw and Leslie Kaye were this year's co-MVP's. Leslie Kaye was team captain and Erin McGraw was most improved.

Coach Zimmer commented on the year — "The girls and boys teams had a great season. The highlight ... had to be the third place finish for the girls and the first ... for the boys in the sectional."

Craig Hurley also believed that winning the sectional was the highlight — "I thought the team had a great year especially beating KV for the sectional championship." He also said that next year's team looks very promising.

Tanya Allie added, "Z, he's just the best!"

Rensselaer Runs Off With a Sectional Win

The RCHS boys cross country team has often been a winning team and 1993 was no exception. Even with a young team consisting of one freshman, three sophomores, three juniors, and two seniors, the boys had an undefeated dual season of 12-0. The sophomores captured a 1st place at the Rensselaer Invitational, and the whole team placed first at the Harrison Invitational. The final reward came when the team won a wet sectional victory before going on to place fifth at regional.

The girls team (one freshman, three sophomores, and one senior) did very well at their first "team" race which came half way through the season. The ladies received a second at the North Newton Invitational, a fourth at conference, and a third at sectional, which advanced them to regional where they placed eighth.

Bomber runners at semi-state were Holly Sinar, J.J. Nagel, and Craig Hurley.

THREE MAKE IT “FAR OUT” OF SECTIONAL

The 1993-94 wrestling squad was made up of young overachievers, who really were an amazement to everyone. The grapplers were under the leadership of Jason Gilbert, the only senior. The team fared well with a respectable record of 9-4. With so many underclassmen, the next few years look very promising to head coach Joe Burvan. Coach Burvan celebrated his silver 25th year with Rensselaer's wrestling squad in '94.

Out of seven teams in the conference, the wrestlers third at the NWHC and at sectional they came in second out of five teams and had three champions: Jason Lewis, Jim Chapman, and Gavin Smith. The six Bombers advancing to regionals placed 17th out of 20 teams. None of the wrestlers made it out of regionals.

Disappointing Start Results in Team Unity for the Varsity Girls.

The 1993-94 varsity girls basketball season was a little disappointing, but anything can happen in sectional. Starting out the season, Rensselaer dropped the first five games and only won five over all. However, the Rensselaer Central girls basketball team came to the first game of sectional ready to play their main opponent, Kankakee Valley. The Cougars came into the tournament the favorite, but Rensselaer

Central soon put a halt to the overrated north Jasper County team. In the next game the Rensselaer Bombers were unable to overcome their fatigue from the night before and were denied victory by the Hebron Hawks.

The season award winners were Jenny Leucke (field goal percentage and rebounds), Ava Zimmer (free throw percentage and rebounds), and Breinne Risner (blocked shots and steals.)

Rensselaer Bomber starter Rebecca Balvich lets the ball fly from the top of the key in the final game of sectional.

Lady Bomber Hoopsters Have a Good Year

This year's girls junior varsity may have had some down points, but they definitely ended on a high note. They captured the final tourney of the season at home by first defeating River Forest then beating North Newton. (Both of whom they had previously lost to.) The team ended up with an 11-6 record. Coach Jerry McKim was pleased with his team's effort and thought the season was fairly predictable.

"You have to expect many ups and downs when you have a young team. We had many high points and also some frustrating lows, but overall it was a good season."

The 1993-94 freshman girls also had a pretty good record, having eleven wins and only four losses. They have had some valuable experience and will be carrying it over to next year.

Freshman Michelle Ringen said, "We were a good team the whole year and had lots of fun. It was a real challenge when Steph (Sellers) and Megan (Bailey) were moved up to J.V. We really had to pull together to fill the gaps. I really enjoyed the year and hope for it to be even better next time around."

Bombers Work Hard, but Fall Short

The Bombers bounced from win to loss all year. One highlight was when they made USA Today for what seemed to be the lowest scoring game ever, when they traveled to Kankakee Valley for a game the Bombers lost 15 to 11.

The Bombers came up short in the sectional. After they drew a bye in the first round, they faced North White on Friday night. The Bombers seemed to go up and down throughout the whole game, but in the last few minutes R.C.H.S. took the lead. In the eyes of the Bomber crowd it seemed to be a good win, but the job was far from over. The team to beat for the sectional win was Twin Lakes, and even though the Bombers took an 18-11 lead, R.C.H.S. scored two points in the second quarter. It ended in a heartbreaking loss of 70 to 43.

Waiting for a pass down under, Jason Fellmy positions himself in front of a Lowell defender.

Experience Teaches the J.V. and Freshmen

Hoopsters start bright future in basketball

The Bomber j.v. basketball team has made a fine showing of themselves with a record of 10 wins and 10 losses. Don't let the win loss record fool you, the Bombers played tenacious defense combined with a stunning offense that made the opposing teams gasp with exhaustion. This team lost most of their games by a very slim margin. They are looking forward to a wonderful varsity career.

The Freshman teams have both made a fine showing of themselves this year with records of 5 wins and 11 losses for the A team and a fine record of 6 wins and 3 losses for the B team. It has been a tough fight for these men to reach there goal but they persevered and made the final cut, to those elite few their era of Bomber basketball began in 94. These freshman will look to gain experience this year and use their knowledge as a stepping stone up to the j.v. and varsity level. They know it will be quite a climb but for those of them that have the guts and determination to climb to the top, sweet victory is theirs as varsity players.

Swimmers Strokin' to Victory

The 1994 swim team had a rather successful year. They practiced twice a day, with the guidance from coaches Dan Kellow and Mark Heining. The team captains were Ryan Baker and Dan White. The management team of Sara Steffen, Amanda and Erin McIlwain, Sarah Taulman, Melissa Dunlap, Jackie Miller, and Casey Tillett were always ready to help. The 18 member team won 70% of their meets, breaking records and doing well in invitational, conference, sectional, and especially at state.

The RCHS 200 free and 200 medley relay records were broken by Ryan Baker, Adam Brown, Dan White, and Grandon Spence. Spence also set the 100 meter breaststroke and the 200 meter individual medley records.

At the Northwest Hoosier Conference meet, five of the local teams competed for the Conference title. The RCHS swimmers placed first ahead of Kankakee Valley, North Judson, and North Newton. The team also did well at the home invitational, placing second to Twin Lakes ahead of South Newton, North Newton, Benton Central, and Kankakee Valley.

The sectional meet was held at Lake Central, with ten teams competing. Rensselaer placed second to Lake Central. The team took three events to state. Spence qualified in the 200 meter individual medley and the 100 meter breaststroke. The RCHS top medley relay team also qualified for state. In preparation for state the boys shaved their heads to reduce their times. But Baker refused to do this on his own. Adam Brown described the incident. "Baker was a wussy for not shaving his head so the entire swim team held him down shaved him and kept a lock of his precious hair."

The state meet was held in Indianapolis at the IUPUI natatorium. Spence, seated first, went into the 100 breaststroke feeling good. Finishing first, Spence left the state meet feeling even better. Spence didn't compete in his second event. The relay team finished 17th.

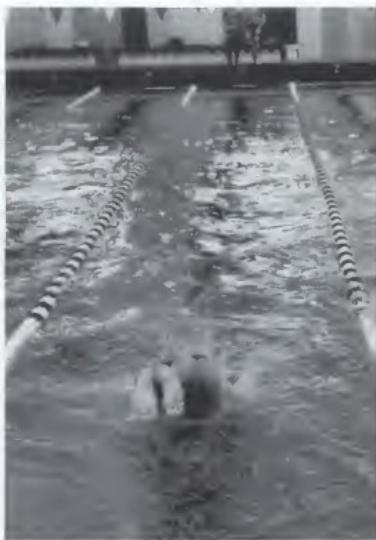

The year ended with the annual awards banquet. The Most Valuable Swimmer, accumulating the most points, was Adam Brown. Four other team members were honored as high point accumulators: Grandon Spence, Ryan Baker, Dan White, and Josh Ojeda. Aaron Brenneman was chosen as the Most Improved. Shane Wood received the Mental Attitude Award. Spence also received a plaque to honor him as the first male athlete to win a state championship at Rensselaer. In Coach Kellow's words, "We are giving Grandon a plaque for being such a stud."

Grandon Spence breaststrokes to victory.

Whose feet are these anyway?

Josh Berger, Adam Brown, and Aaron Brenneman have a good start for the 100 backstroke.

Boys Golf Takes the State Challenge at Prestwick

The 1994 boys golf team was once again one of the most outstanding sports teams at Rensselaer Central. Not only did they have an impressive 15-3 regular season record and finished first in the North West Hoosier Conference, but they also shot an impressive back nine at regional to advance to the state finals. Shooting a 325 overall, the team edged out Crown Point to join Valparaiso and South Bend Clay in the Bomber's second visit (the first was in 1985) to state.

Jake Risner lead the team at LaPorte with a 77 (one under 35 on the back nine), while Brian Post shot a 78.

It was the overall team effort that made the 1994 boys team outstanding, and individuals were honored. Appropriately, Jake Risner, Nick Hoffman (Rotary exchange student from Denmark), Brian Post, and Brad Burvan were named all conference players. Risner won the coveted Captain's award, the most improved went to Rob Nussbaum (varsity) and Gavin Smith (j.v.), while the most valuable player award went to Post.

The junior varsity team indicated that the successes for boys golf should continue for they too finished with an admirable 10-5 record.

Dean Sheffler inches out his opponents once again as he brings home another first place for Rensselaer.

The 1994 track season was extremely eventful. The men's team was coached by Bill Zimmer and Dan Kellow. The women's team was coached by Nancy Messman and Shelly Foister.

The men made this season a very impressive year with a record of 13-2, and a team with only 3 seniors, Sean McKim, Dean Sheffler, and Craig Hurley. The years upcoming looks good for RCHS considering the high amount of seniors and juniors.

The girls were very pleased about their performance, especially Jackie Dunbar and Jenny Luecke for breaking records. Jackie being only a junior broke a school and sectional record in the 400 meter dash and the long jump. Jenny broke her records in school and the sectional for shot and discs. A truly outstanding year for both the men's and women's teams. The 1994 Men's Track Team (front row from left): Paul McKim, Keith VanWienen, Juan Rodriguez, and Ray Brouwer; (middle) Billy Parker, Kevin DeMoss, Craig Hurley, Donnie Sellers, Sean McKim, JJ Nagel, Ryan Wing, Nathan Bailey, and Brian DeMoss; and (standing) Coach Bill Zimmer, Brad Cook, Jason Nowlin, Jeremy Lane, Brian Sitz, Dean Sheffler, Bryon Huff, Chad Koebeke, Sam Streitmatter, Mike Faris, Dan Pilstick, Coach Ed Courtright, and Coach Dan Kellow.

Baseball a Success for the '94 Bombers

The 1994 RCHS varsity baseball team had a fine season, well enough to finish third in the conference. The Bombers tied with defending champion Kankakee Valley while being edged out by the Lowell Red Devils for second. The North Newton Spartans rolled to the championship.

Among the top five hitters in the area, Jason Fellmy tied the school record for doubles in his varsity career, and on the season, he led the Bombers in batting (.495 avg.) and homeruns (7). However, Jason Courtney, last year's team batting average leader, beat Fellmy for the team lead in doubles during the regular season. Derrick Barton had five homers and led the team in triples.

Other outstanding moments came as Jason Courtney broke the season and career records for being hit by a pitch (14 times!) John Joseph led the pitching staff, coming on strong at the end of the season, winning four of his last five decisions.

Senior leader Nathan Mathew commented on the not-so-consistent play of the team, but he showed optimism toward the upcoming baseball sectional: "After our mid-season slump, we are seeing our winning ways again. I have the utmost confidence in our ability to be crowned sectional champs."

Sophomore Jason Arnett felt the "season was kind of crappy in the beginning, but we turned it around in the end. We didn't achieve all of our goals ... so that was kind of disappointing."

The Bombers' season came to an abrupt end in the opening game of the sectional with a 5 to 3 loss to the North White Vikings.

The Bombers' power allowed them to swing for the fences as shown by this Bomber batter.
